

PADI REBREATHER INSTRUCTOR

3 Days

As PADI Instructors you know the importance of continuing education for your divers and yourself. The interest and demand for recreational rebreather training and diving is growing rapidly and being able to offer this service is essential to staying ahead in the diving industry. So whether you are a new or experienced instructor being able to offer rebreather training is an important part of your business.

We have put together training packages and support to help you meet the interest and demand of your new and experienced divers. For example, rather than investing in training units for yourself and students we have put together comprehensive hire and support packages to reduce your capital investment and make your courses profitable.

So join the elite – join the revolution!

Prerequisites for PADI Rebreather Instructor Training:

- Be a PADI Open Water Scuba Instructor
